

Assignment 2: System Call Hooking

20.10.2014

1 Hook the 'read' System Call (submitted)

Hook the read system call and output the intercepted data when reading from `stdin`. This output should be printed via `printf`. The interception should work by replacing the function pointer in the system call table, then passing control back to the original system call handler.